The Cornwall Association of Local Historians (CALH) welcomes all who are interested in local history, bringing together enthusiasts and professional historians to share their research, knowledge and understanding of Cornwall's rich past.

Cornwall Association of Local Historians

www.cornwalllocalhistorians.co.uk

CALH was formed in 1981 with the aim of uniting, representing and co-ordinating the work of local historians with an interest in a wide-cross section of Cornish history.

CALH members enjoy a wide range of benefits and activities:

- A programme of summer visits hosted by knowledgeable local historians.
- An annual conference and AGM in Spring.
- Regular Newsletters featuring news and information on forthcoming events organised by CALH and other relevant organisations.
- A free annual Journal published each Spring, including articles, reports, book reviews, and notes and enquiries from members.
- Access to a network of like-minded researchers with a wide range of experience and expertise in Cornish archives and researching different aspects of local history.
- Help and advice on producing books, leaflets and displays.

Interests include the historical study of:

- Particular towns and parishes
- Local economies and industries
- Archaeology and vernacular architecture
- Local individuals, families, and communities
- Social history.

CALH is also a member of the British Association for Local History (BALH).
